ij. Michael Wenssler, first press.

[Type 1, Burger 107. (1^a, pure; 1^a mixt with roman capitals; cf. press 3, type 1).—Type 2, smaller type; cf. press 3, type 2 (Burger 108, right half). (2^a, mixt with roman capitals, like but smaller than those in 1^a).—Type 3, apparently = Speier, press 3, type 6; caps. like type 1.—Type 4, large round type; Burger 6, headline; cf. Strassburg, press 11, type 1, 1^a. In some books capitals of Strassburg, press 12, type 1, are used in it.—Type 5, large text; see Burger 6, the larger type in the commentary; cf. Speier, press 3, type 8.—Type 6, text, smaller than 5; Burger 6, text; cf. Speier, press 3, type 4.—Type 7, smaller than 6; Burger 6, smaller type in commentary; cf. Speier, press 3, type 7.—Type 8 = Strassburg, press 10, type 3, or a close copy of it.—Type 9 = Strassburg, press 11, type 1, apparently; see the footnote there. Round h; 20 ll. = 87–88 mm. The l from type 7 is found with it.—Type 10, resembles 9 (same body), but a different type; tailed h; hyphen more upright; different 3, us, v; C and E as Strassburg, press 12, type 2, as well as ib., press 14, type 3. Later the caps. are much mixt with those of type 8.—Type 11, smaller than 9, extremely like (or =) Speier, press 3, type 9; cf. Strassburg, press 12, type 8.—Type 12, very large missal (canon) type (not = Speier, press 3, type 21).—Type 13, fairly large church type, like but not the same as Speier, press 3, type 19.—Type 14, smaller church type, like type 12, but D, M, P, Q have no diagonal strokes, and N is rounder.—Type 15, another church type, used in the Graduale of 1488.—Type 16, small gothic, apparently = press 5, type 18. The close relations after c. 1480 of Wenssler with Strassburg, and with Drach at Speier, cause some difficulties in his types. The two books of 1491 were printed when Wenssler no longer possessed a press.]

1. Adam Steinshauer, of Schweinfurt (partly with Heinrich Wirzburg de Vach) 1478 March 24
 2. Louis Cruse, or Garbin, first press 1479?
 3. Simon du Jardin [a. 25 Oct. 1480?]
 4. Louis Cruse, from Promenthoux, third press.. .. 1483 March 13

 6. Iohannes Fabri of Langres, from Torino? sixth press? [dub.] .. 1491 May 31
 7. Jean Bellot, of Rouen, from Grenoble, third press 1498 Feb. 5

i. Adam Steinshauer.

[Steinshauer was associated with H. Wirzburg (afterwards at Rougemont) on 25 Oct. 1479. His last book is dated 25 Oct. 1480, and the type seems to have passed to Simon du Jardin.—Type 1, larger, type 2, smaller type; see Burger 64.]

 7807. n.d. Guido Columna: histoire de la destruction de Troye. [TROY.] F°. Not in H. Type 1.

ij. Louis Cruse, first press.

[Books printed by Cruse are so seldom met with, and he seems to have used so many types, that any satisfactory conclusions regarding him are very difficult. The date 1479 rests on the authority of the Cat. des incun. des Bibliothèques de Lyon, no. 24, which states that a Genève breviary of that date [? the fragment described by Gaullieur, p. 54] and the Danse des aveugles are in the same type. The name of Cruse appears in the Constitutiones Synodales of 15 June 1480, which is also printed in type 1.—Type 1, small delicate type; the capitals shew Köln influence. A poor facs. (fragment of a Horae?) in Gaullieur.—Type 2 (10 Sept. 1481), large text, strongly resembling Chambéry, press 1, type 1 (TP. XXIX. 7); and to a less extent, press 1, type 1 above. Facs., Lippmann's Druckschriften, pl. 89.]

7808. † n.d. Augustinus: de uita christiana. 4°. *2095. Type 1.
7809. n.d. La DANSE des aveugles. 4°. Not in H. Type 1.

iij. Simon du Jardin.

[Presumably the successor to Steinshauer, i.e. later than 25 Oct. 1480, as we find him in possession of Steinshauer's type.—Type 1 = press 1, type 1. The variations in some of the capitals, e.g. I, S, are probably inherited and not fresh.]

7810. n.d. FIERABRAS. F°. Not in H. Type 1.

iv. Louis Cruse, third press.

[Type 2, as before.—Type 3, medium text, upright type; the M is very remarkable, being formed of two interlacing loops. The middle twist of the S is double. The D varies; in 1487 it is square and quite plain; in the P.B. book it is similar, but larger, and seems to be wrong fount. In 1492 another D, which agrees well with the type, is used; it is a little ornamented on the left side; 20 ll. = 94 mm.—Type 4, small type, almost identical with Paris, press 11, type 7 (q.v.), except for the hyphen, h, and C.—Type 5, like Lyon, press 6, type 2, but has curly-tailed h, and is a little smaller.—Type 6, french type; the capitals are very like those of Lyon, press 7, type 6. Two sets of initials (excluding the early device-initial of the Thomas Aquinas); 1, used in the Donatus, Cordiale, and Albertus; 2, in the Sept Sages de Rome of 1492.]

7817. * 28 Apr. 1495. Rolewinck: FASCICVLVS temporum, gall. F°. 6944.

v. Jacques Arnollet.

[The two books attributed to Arnollet in 1490 (Favre 14, 15: Gaullicur, p. 43) are very shadowy. Their very existence is doubtful, while if they do exist, they may quite well have been produced at Lyon.]

vi. Iohannes Fabri, sixth press?

[The Missale Gebennense printed by Fabri in 1491 contains no name of place, and is quite needlessly ascribed to Genève. It is far more probable that Fabri never left Torino. The Langres statutes (no. 8799), which must have been printed after 20 Apr. 1491, are printed in his Torino type.]

vij. Jean Bellot, third press.

[Type 1, rather large text type, upright; very like Paris, press 27, type 4; cf. nos. 7820-7822.—Type 2, the lowercase is like press 4, type 3; but the capitals are different, being like those of Paris, press 27, type 1; 20 ll. = 90 mm.]

iv. Louis Symonel, R. Blandin and J. Simon.

[The existence of this press at the Soufflet vert, as distinct from that of Keyser and Stol, was first made known by M. Claudin in his catalogue for Jan. 1897, no. 67954, p. 698. As Blandin was in 1478 associated with Frenier, he must ere then have retired from the association. In his Hist. de l'impr. à Poitiers M. Claudin has stated that he considers the Tardif and Solinus to belong to another press, the printers being two persons named Gaspar and Russangis, who are named in some verses at the end. It seems possible that the two names belong to one person, Gaspar of Russanges, and that he was editor or corrector; because the way in which the type gradually changes points to a single press rather than to two presses.—Type 1 is very like press 3, type 1, but has a larger face and a smaller body; 20 ll. = 103 mm. At first (1^a) it has h as press 3 ('Valdarfer' h) and roman c only (TP. VI. 5); in 1475 a gothic, turned-back d comes in (TP. VI. 6) and a tailed, gothic h; both forms are used together at first (1^{ab}), but by May 1476 the earlier have disappeared (1^a); TP. VI. 7. Signatures appear first in 1479.]

v. Pasquier Bonhomme.

[Type 1, TP. VII. 1.—Type 2, TP. VII. 2, 3; afterwards used by Jean Bonhomme (press 15), q.v. See P. 1750 for the date 1475.]

vi. Printer of Ockam, dialogi.

[See Hain 11937, some copies of which have the word 'Parisius' in the colophon.—Type 1, extremely like Angers, press 1, type 1 (TP. xxvi. 1, 2), but the type seems smaller, and it differs in minor details. Round h, very curious us; single hyphen; 20 ll. = 95 mm.]

7916. † n.d. Aristoteles: secreta secretorum. 4°. Not in H. Type 1.

vij. Richard Blandin and Guillaume Frenier.

[See Hain 9827. They printed 'sub intersignio S. Catharinae.']

viiij. Guillaume Lefèvre.

[Type 1, larger type, very like press 13, type 1, but without the additional forms of C and h. Sigs. in arabic numerals; Marchand uses roman. No colon, used by Marchand. Almost = Poitiers, press 1, type 2, but rounded d only; Poitiers has also, at first, chiefly a straight (roman) d; 20 ll. = 72-3 mm. (Poitiers 77.) Cf. also press 10, type 1 (different C and stops, and 80 mm.). Facs., Claudin, Mon. de l'impr. à Poitiers, pl. 3.—Type 2, smaller type exactly like 1; TP. VII. 4; cf. Poitiers, press 1, type 3; but the d is different (as type 1, while Poitiers has at first roman d only); v also different (Poitiers uses the v of the larger type). Body and caps. as type 1. Apparently = TP. VII. 4, and therefore Guill. Lefèvre.]

ix. Jean Dupré, first press.

[Type 1, TP. VII. 7; XXXIV. 8.—Type 2, apparently identical (even the G) with Poitiers, press 1, type 1 (TP. XXVII. 7, 8, 11). See TP. XXVIII. 7, smaller type; Claudin, Mon. de l'impr. à Poitiers, pl. 9. Cf. press 10, type 2.—Dupré was at Chartres, 31 July 1482.]

7920. † 22 Sept. 1481. Missale Parisiense. [With Desid. Huym.] F°. 11339. Types 1, 2. [On vellum.—Imp.]

x. Louis Martineau.

[Type 1, not in TP., is like press 8, type 1, but less regular; round C and crosses for stops; double hyphens; round d only; 20 ll. = 80 mm.—Type 2 = press 9, type 2, apparently, but looks rougher.]

7921. 9 Aug. 1482. GREGORIVS Ariminensis: super primo sententiarum. F°. *1645. Types 1, 2.
7922. 1 June 1483. CONSOBRINVS: de iustitia commutativa. 4°. Not in H. Type 1.

7925. 20 Feb. 148 $\frac{1}{2}$. Ioh. BACO: super primo sententiarum. F°. 1107(1). Type 1.

xi. Michel, of Toulouse, first press.

[Two gothic types, according to Castan, Cat. des Incun. de Besançon, no. 343. Wood-cut initials are also used, which is surprising at this date. Is the year possibly wrong? For second press of this printer, see below, press 49.]

xij. Antoine Caillaut.

[The very small number of the dated books of Caillaut makes a strictly chronological arrangement impossible. The following arrangement is probably roughly correct, except that one or two of the books in type 11 are probably as early as any of the books in type 5, which may be held to be of about 1486-87, if not earlier.]

(A) Types.

Type 1 = TP. VIII. 4; cf. XXXIV. 9, press 14, type 4. Note two forms of C; one appears to belong to type 2.—Type 2, like type 1, but smaller; it is not certain that this type was used by Caillaut.—Type 3, large square type; it is used with type 1 in an edition of the Quatre dernières choses.—Type 4, smaller than 3; resembles press 16, type 2 (TP. XII. 4).—Type 5, text type; lowercase like that of type 1. Large con, with loop like an us level with the line; two sizes of us, not at all like the con; 20 ll. = 79-80 mm.—Type 6, almost indistinguishable from 5 in appearance, but the con has a small loop and the tail is bent back horizontally. Small us. Different body; 20 ll. = 75 mm.—Type 6* is type 6, either leaded, or more probably recast on a larger body; 20 ll. = 82 mm.—Type 7, small type, almost = Genève, press 4, type 4, but has C, O like type 10; tailed h (the Genève type has round h); ¶ (the other has ¶); the two parts of the double hyphen are more distant; 20 ll. = 63½ (of the Genève type, 64½) mm.—Type 8, vernacular type, rather large text size; A formed like that of press 14, type 5.—Type 9, upright type, smaller than type 4; like press 16, type 3 (TP. XII. 6), but that is a vernacular, this a latin type; the v is strikingly different. Caps. from type 4 are often mixt with this type.—Type 10, very small; french caps. as press 14, type 9; latin lowercase, as press 14, type 10.—Type 11, vernacular type, on the model of type 5 or 6; capitals the same. Almost identical with press 14, type 8; cf. press 29, type 1. The capitals are below the level of the lowercase.—Type 12, french text, much larger than type 11; very like type 8, but seemingly a little smaller; A is different. The caps. are very like those of type 9, if not the same. Cf. press 29, type 1; 20 ll. = 95 mm.—Type 13, another variety of types 5, 6; M as press 16, type 1 (TP. XII. 3); con as type 6; 20 ll. = 77-78 mm.—Type 14, french type, rough; not unlike type 11, but much sloped; appears to be a late type.

(C) Devices.

- Device 1, Silvestre 46; the 'Caillaut' is inserted in type; at least one book is known in which this space is blank; see the Besançon catalogue, no. 274. This device seems to have been abandoned at a comparatively early date.
- Device 2, Silvestre 253; there can be little doubt that this device is used as early as device 1, if not earlier; but this is exceptional, and it appears for the most part in the later books, after device 1 has vanished. It is found on 22 Sept. 1489 in Hain 8198, which is printed for Pigouchet by Caillaut in types 3 and 5.]

[(A) Types.]

Type 1, TP. VII. 8, text; two forms of C, one as press 8, type 1, or press 15, type 2 (Claudin, Mon. de l'impr. à Poitiers, pl. 5, 6), the other as Claudin, ib., pl. 4, l. 7; two forms of h, one round, one angular and narrow; two forms of l, one as TP., the other more elaborate. Round d (as press 8, type 1) only; e different from that of 4; body same, or nearly so. In 1490 a round C like that of type 4 is used; see Claudin, ib., pl. 90; an additional M is found, and the second h is absent; 20 ll. = 75 mm.—Type 2, TP. VIII. 2, 3, IX. 1; large upright, square type; curious capitals; rather rude. Cf. press 41, type 1.—Type 3, french text = Angoulême, press 1, type 1 (TP. XXXVI. 6–8, 10, 11); in 1488–9 has the same mixt caps., but in and after 1490 (perhaps owing to the establishment of the Angoulême press) the E, which is too large, is the only remaining outsider; 20 ll. = 103–4 mm.—Type 4, like 1, but round C only; different e, round h only; straight d predominates; 20 ll. = 74 mm.—Type 5, large round type; fine capitals, like those of press 19, type 3.—Type 6, french type, larger than type 3.—Type 7, larger roman; cf.

press 33, type 11.—Type 8, smaller roman; like press 48, type 16, but different.—Type 9, large text gothic; cf. press 16, type 5, etc. TP. XXXVIII. 11 is a similar type; cf. XVI. 12, line 1.—Type 10, small text gothic; cf. press 16, type 7, press 34, type 10 and press 38, type 9; 20 ll. = 82 mm.

xiv. Jean Dupré, third press.

[Dupré's press at Paris was at work all the time that the Abbeville books were being printed; and two of the three Abbeville books have the name of P. Gérard only. It is therefore probable that Dupré himself was never at Abbeville, but that Gérard, who may have been his representative, was the actual printer, Dupré supplying the material. Dupré's address in Paris at this time was the sign of the Two Swans, Rue S. Jacques.—Type 1, brought back from Chartres.—Type 4 = press 12, type 1; see TP. xxxiv. 9, Facs., Bibliographica, III. 441-453; fig. 1-4, 6-8 (text).—Type 9, very small type; the capitals = press 12, type 10, but pointed lowercase. Facs., ib., fig. 6, 8 (marginalia), 9.—Type 10, also very small; the lowercase seems to be that of press 12, type 10, but the caps. are different and curious.—Type 11, large text type, upright; latin lowercase; identical with press 19, type 6.—Type 12, french text type, resembling type 7; very like press 19, type 5.—Type 13, latin text type, with the caps. of type 12, but larger body, ranging with type 11.—Type 14, large upright type = press 19, type 3.—Type 15, large type, smaller than 14; like 6, but different.—Type 16, large french text; capitals not as type 11; the same as Vérard type 12 (see below liij., A § 1); 20 ll. = 103 mm.]

xvii. Janon Carcain, first press?

[See Hain *6399. There is no direct evidence in the colophon that the book was actually printed in Paris; all that is stated is that it was printed by 'Io. carchagni' or 'Iohannes carchain,' and that it is to be sold in Paris at the sign of S. John Baptist on the Pont S. Michel. It is certain that on 14 Feb. 1484, i.e. three months after the date of this book, Carcain was settled in Lyon.]

xviii. Guillaume Maynyal.

[Guillaume Maynyal, who must be reckoned a kinsman of Georgius Maynyal, is only known as the printer for Caxton of the Sarum missal of 1487; see Blades, Life of Caxton, ed. 1882, p. 366.]

xix. Pierre Le Rouge, second press.

[Type 2, french text, TP. VIII. 8, XIII., XIV. (text). Except in the first part of the Art de bien mourir of 1492 the C is always as in TP. XIV., and except in the doubtful Livre du faulcon, the R is always as the R in TP. XIV. In these two the C 2 and R 2 of the Vêrard type 3 (below, liij., A § 1) are respectively used.—The large ornamental L of the Livre du faulcon is the original from which that used by Le Caron (TP. xv. 5) and Vêrard's printer (TP. ix. 2) is copied. A third variety is shewn in TP. XXXVI. 1 and a fourth in Monceaux, Les Le Rouge, II. p. 7; this was used at Troyes. A fifth, below, liij., B § 5.—Type 3, large upright type; TP. XIII. col. 2, ll. 1-3; XIV. col. 1, ll. 1-2. Cf. press 14, type 13.—Type 4, small french type, almost the same as press 43, type 4; of this there are two varieties; 4^a has a T with a double upright, and a single hyphen; 4^b has T as press 43, type 4, and a double hyphen; 20 ll. = 81-2 mm.—Type 5, larger than 4, but difficult to distinguish, as the capitals of 5 are often used with 4, and the body is the same. It is very like press 14, type 12, press 45, type 4, and Poitiers, press 1, type 8; the same remarkable M.—Type 6, like type 2, but a latin lowercase, upright; facs. xxi. Johann Higman.

[Hopyl, though he calls himself impressor, was clearly at this time only a publisher. He and W. Probst are associated with Higman in the Senecae tragoediae in Higman's first types, though Hopyl lived at a different address ; many of the books bearing his name only are in the same types as those bearing Higman's name only ; in 1496 they are again associated ; and the colophon to the Missale Traiectense of 1497 shews how they were related. Higman lived 'in uico clauso brunelli' ; Hopyl 'in uico S. Iacobi ad intersignum S. Barbarae apud S. Benedictum' (1489–90) ; in 1494 'in uico S. Iacobi ad intersignum S. Georgii, aut gallice a Treteau' or 'in pago diui Iacobi et apud insigne S. Georgii' ; this was also near S. Benoît.—Type 1 = press 2, type 4 ; 20 ll. = 78 mm.—Type 2 = press 2, type 5. xxij. Pierre Le Caron.

[Le Caron is a rather mysterious person; very few books printed by him are known, and they are scattered over a great number of years. It is extremely probable that a large proportion of Vérard's books were printed by him, as the 'presentation cut,' which first appears in the Caesar, and the L shewn in TP. xv. 5, are found in so many of Vérard's books.

(A) Types.

Type 1, TP. xv. 6.—Type 2, TP. xv. 5.—Type 3, french type, like press 34, type 7; it is distinguished by the tail of the y bending round to the right, while that of the 3 does not do so. In the Chartier, however, another y is found (as well as this one) near the end; and the same book contains an E from the Vêrard type 7. In the Martial de Paris a curious fat ¶ is used; 20 ll. = 94 mm.; cf. press 44, type 1; TP. XVI. 11.—Type 4, perhaps not a type at all, but the letters are separate; huge, the short letters being 14 mm. high.

(B) Addresses.

See Pichon and Vicaire, Documents pour servir à l'histoire des libraires de Paris, 1895, p. 15.

(C) Devices.

1. Vêrard's first device with his name cut out, and that of Le Caron substituted.
2. Device with PC and 'franboys.']

xxij. Georg Wolf, first press.

[A year after Higman started printing with two of Gering's types, Wolf, another german (both being very probably former workmen of Gering) is found at Gering's own house, and using the same two types. In 1490 a temporary interruption occurred, and Wolf printed at another address with different types; but in 1491 he was back at the Soleil Doré, and thenceforward uses the types which in 1493 became, together with the two earlier types, the property of Gering and Rembolt; it is to be supposed that Rembolt found the capital to set Gering on his feet once more and buy out Wolf; this is confirmed by the fact that the device used is always that of Rembolt alone. Wolf then moved to the sign of S. Barbara; see below, press 33.—Type 1 = press 2, type 4.—Type 2 = press 2, type 5. [Types 3, 4, see press 25.]—Type 5, small text type, like press 16, type 6, etc., but distinguished from all others by its very narrow H; tailed h; double hyphen; 20 ll. = 62 mm.; TP. XVI. 4.—Type 6, large text type like press 16, type 5; 20 ll. = 89 mm.—Type 7, small text, larger than 5; like press 34, type 8; very like TP. xv. 4; see Claudin, Mon. de l'impr. à Poitiers, pl. 109–10.—Type 8, smaller than 6 and slightly larger than press 38, type 9, but very like it; seems to be the same type as that used at S. Barbara; but the caps. are largely those of type 6 (wrong fount).—Type 9, larger than type 3; apparently = press 14, type 6.]

xxiv. Germain Bineaut.

[Bineaut printed 'au saumon, devant le palais.'—Type 1 = press 5, type 2 (= press 15, type 1, q.v.).]

xxv. Georg Wolf, second press.

[See above, press 23. Address: au château pers prope collegium bonae curiae.—Type 3, very like, if not = press 16, type 2.—Type 4, very small gothic; 20 ll. = 59 mm.—Press 1 (23) at the Soleil Doré was resumed 22 June 1491.]

8149.

1490. ALBERTVS de Saxonia: sophismata. 4°. 581. Types 3, 4.

xxvi. André Bocard.

[There are several difficulties respecting Bocard; one is his relation to Baligault, and another, how far he was a printer. It is certain that nearly all his types are identical with those of Baligault. Secondly, the Art de bien mourir of Feb. 1492, which has his device on the titlepage, is puzzling, as it is printed in 'Vérard types.' Did Bocard print this book, or was it printed for him? If the former, how did he come to have possession of these types? Thirdly, the book printed for or by Bocard and Baligault jointly (here placed as an appendix), does not seem to be printed in the types of either of them.—Type 1, medium text type, is very like Basel, press 8, type 4, but smaller; 20 ll. = 90 mm.; cf. press 34, type 1.—Type 2^a, small type, like press 16, type 6, with round h and ¶; 20 ll. = 63 mm.; cf. press 34, type 2^a.—Type 2^b, the same type with tailed h; cf. press 34, type 2^b. See Claudin, Mon. de l'Impr. à Poitiers, pl. 104.—Type 3, large round type, like press 16, type 9; cf. press 34, type 5.—Type 4, large text, like press 16, type 5; see type 9, and cf. press 34, type 5.—Type 5, small text; 20 ll. = 72 mm. See TP. XVI. 10 and XII. 8, which = press 34, type 4; cf. below, type 10.—Type 6 = Vérard (below, liij., A § 1, q.v.) 3; with O 2, P 2, and R 2.—Type 7 = press 19, type 4 (Vérard 1).—Type 8 = press 19, type 5 (Vérard 4).—Type 9, almost indistinguishable from type 4, but a little smaller; 2 lines of 4 = 8 mm., of 9 = 7 mm.; cf. press 34, type 6.—Type 10, rather larger than type 5, and with a different P; 20 ll. = 77–78 mm.; cf. press 38, type 9; and see TP. XII. 2.—Type 11, very small type; cf. press 34, type 11.]

xxx. Jean Trepperel.

[Trepperel is one of the most difficult of the Paris printers; he seems to have been largely a bookseller as well as a printer. Also, so few of his books are dated that the arrangement of them is not satisfactory. The Livre de clergie (no. 8223) has Trepperel's device on the title, and states at the end that it is 'imprimé par Michel le Noir libraire,' which seems a contradiction in terms. The type however seems to be connected with one of Trepperel's, and has no analogy among Le Noir's types. See also the Mazarine catalogue, no. 933^a, which is printed by Trepperel for Le Noir. Another striking instance is P. no. 778, 779, where of what are clearly two copies of one edition, one has the name and device of Trepperel, and the other those of Le Noir.

(A) Types.

Type 1, upright type with french capitals. Curious I, M.—Type 2; the lowercase is almost identical with that of type 1, but the caps, except I (which is not as type 1), are the same as those of press 14, type 16.—Type 3, medium french text type, TP. XVI. 3; cf. press 43, type 3. The B, E, F, I, T are distinctive; 20 ll. = 98 mm.—Type 4, small text, like press 27, type 3; press 29, type 5. Roman caps. are found in it; 20 ll. =

75 mm.—Type 5, small french type, unlike any other; very neat; most of the caps. are like those of type 3, others, e.g. C, like those of type 1; 20 ll. = 81 mm. Cf. TP. XXXVIII. 5, 6.—Type 6, large round type, like press 26, type 3; TP. XVI. 7.—Type 7, french text, probably sixteenth century.

xxxi. Gillet Couteau and Jean Menard.

[Couteau and Menard are best known as the printers of sig. d-i of Vêrard's Art de bien mourir of 1492. Whether they continued to work for Vêrard is unknown. Hain 11810 mentions a book printed in 1494 by Menard alone for P. le Dru, but it is very doubtful whether such a book exists. Couteau was printing alone as late as 1513 and 22 Jan. 1518.—Type 1, see TP. viii. 9 = Vêrard (below, liij., A § 1) type 3; with O 1, P 2, R 1.—Type 2 = press 19, type 4.—Type 3 = press 19, type 5.]

xxxij. Georg Wolf, third press, and Johann Philippi [first press].

[For Wolf before 1493, see presses 23, 25, above. On 16 Apr. 1493 we find him at the sign of S. Barbara in the Rue St. Jacques, at first alone, then, with a new set of types

(the others having become the property of Gering and Rembolt; see press 38), on 20 Apr. 1494, with Johann Philippi, of Kreuznach. After Feb. 1495 Wolf's name is not found in connection with this press. In 1497 Kerver's name begins to appear as publisher, and in 1498 Wolf seems to have left Philippi (who started in 1500 by himself, see press 50), and set up with Kerver, still using the same types. [The scattered dates of Maurand's books, like those of Le Caron, suggest that he is responsible for many of Vêrard's books. [Address: prope S. Mathurinum.—Closely connected with Le Dru; see press 40. At the end of 1497 or beginning of 1498 Jehannot seems to have died or ceased printing, and his types seem to have passed to J. xlviij. Georg Wolf, fourth press.

[In 1497 Kerver is merely a stationer, and J. Philippi (i.e. Wolf and Philippi) is his printer. In 1498 (Oct. 28) he is still 'libraire,' but Wolf's name appears only on the borders. In Feb. 1499 Wolf and Kerver are openly associated; although in Dec. 1498 'impressum per Th. Kerver' is found, not till 9 Apr. 1499 is he actually called imprimeur; his address is: en la rue des mathurins ou sur le pont S. Michel à la Licorne. On May 25 and June 22 of that year Wolf reappears, but after this he is again lost, and Kerver permanently takes his place. But even in the sixteenth century (e.g. in March 1509) Kerver is constantly spoken of in colophons as 'bibliopola' or 'libraire.' It is curious that the address of Gillet Remacle is also given as the Licorne on the Pont St. Michel.—Type 14, very small type; curly-tailed h; 20 ll. = 51 mm.—Type 15, large french horae text type; TP. xvii. 8; 20 ll. = 92–3 mm.—Type 16, smaller roman type; TP. xvii. 7; 20 ll. = 77 mm.; cf. press 13, type 8.—Type 17, very small type, like type 14, but the lowercase and some of the caps. are different.—Type 18, large round gothic, resembling press 38, type 6.—Type 19, like press 38, type 9; 20 ll. = 81 mm.]

I. Antoine Vêrard.

[The majority of the books printed for Vêrard are, and seem likely to remain, a pathless wilderness. It cannot be said that M. Monceaux has done much to throw light on the difficulties. Where a publisher is concerned, arguments derived from the occurrence of illustrations are valueless in determining the printer of a book*: the fact that cuts used by G. le Rouge at Troyes afterwards appear in Vêrard's possession, only shews that Vêrard bought them; and there is no real evidence that G. le Rouge was at Paris at all in the fifteenth century. As to Pierre le Rouge, it can hardly be accidental that his type is modified at the very moment that his name ceases to appear in Vêrard books. The fact that the L of the Mer des histoires, which probably in 1488 belonged not to Le Rouge, but to Commin, is in Vêrard's possession in 1500 does not prove anything, as in twelve years most cuts had wandered from their original possessors. It is possible that the Livre du faulcon is an exception, as it contains the two forms of R (see below, type 3), and must be before 1489, as the L in it is the original of that used by Le Caron in 1489, unless indeed the L first appeared in some earlier book; but the Livre du faulcon is not certainly by Le Rouge, and may well be before his first book in 1487. If however it is Le Rouge's work, the fact that the L used by Vêrard is not this original, but a copy, makes it difficult to believe that any close connexion existed between Vêrard and the Le Rouge family. The printers we find connected with Vêrard up to 1500 are: Dupré, Marchand, P. Le Rouge, Le Caron, Couteau and Menard, Maurand, Levet, Jehannot-Poitevin, and Baligault; there is also the mysterious Art de bien mourir of 1492, in 'Vêrard' types, with Bocard's device; it may be that Bocard shared the expense of this book, and that Vêrard's device may be found in some copies. Of these printers we find three, whose productions shew scattered dates, suggesting that they were largely employed on books in which their names did not appear; these are Dupré, Le Caron, and Maurand. Now Dupré had an early association with Vêrard, and at a later date the identity of the Vêrard type 12 with Dupré's type 16 points to some connexion: Le Caron is similarly attached by the Caesar of 1488, and by the identity at a later time of the Vêrard type 11* with his type 3, as well as by the transference of the Le Caron L of 1489 to Vêrard. Maurand seems to have taken over type 3 from Couteau and Menard after the Art de bien mourir was printed, but we cannot tell how long it remained in his hands. One thing only is certain, and that is that all the 'Vérard' types as they stand are so inextricably connected with each other that it is at present impossible to separate the mass of the books into distinct groups by their types. In this connexion attention may be called to the numerous books printed in two text types, sometimes section by section, as the Merlin of 1498, sometimes, as the Ogier, leaf by leaf—a thing which could not have been done unless both types existed together in separate cases in one printing house, and compositors were setting up in both types simultaneously—and in the case of the Roman de la Rose, both leaf by leaf, and with the types rather mixt.

* The occurrence of the same cut in Le Caron's Caesar of (1488), Marchand's Aristoteles of 1489, Le Rouge's Orosius of 1491, the Alanus of 1493, Lucan of 1500, Cent nouvelles nouvelles, and rentius, and in a book of 1508, is a sufficient proof of this; and the L (copied from that in the Livre du faulcon), which appears first in Le Caron's Chartier of 1489 (not printed for Vêrard), then the Chroniques printed by Maurand in 1493, in the Vincent de Beauvais, Aristoteles of 1497, and lerinage of 1499, is a similar instance.

Type 1 seems = press 19, type 4^a. Cf. press 43, type 4.—Type 2 seems = press 30, type 3. Cf. press 43, type 3. In the Horae printed in this type the D is often broken, so that the thin inner perpendicular line does not appear. In this type the y slopes to the left, in the ordinary way; the end of the 3 is turned round to the right: in Driart's and Mignart's types, as in type 11, the reverse is the case; 20 ll. = 96–98 mm. Type 2 has B as Trepperel, 2^a has a B like press 16, type 3, or press 34, type 7 (cf. TP. XXIII. 5). This appears to be practically identical with the text type of the Marnef horae (below, p. 608). Facs., Monceaux, Les Le Rouge, I. 120, 154: Bibliographica, III. 457, fig. 10.—Type 3 = press 19, type 2, with variations; 20 ll. = 113–115 mm. The C of type 3 is only found in the Art de bien mourir among Le Rouge's books, and the R (R 2) only in the doubtful Livre du faulcon. The C of TP. XIV. is never used in these books, but the C of TP. VIII. 9. O 1 = Le Rouge (TP. XIII. col. 2), O 2 is wide, like that used in press 12, type 4. P 1 as Le Rouge (TP. xv. 2), P 2, smaller, with diagonal inner lines. R 1, as Le Rouge (TP. xv. 2), like a k in german type; R 2, of ordinary form, as in the Livre du faulcon. The T also seems to differ from that of Le Rouge.—Type 3^a = type 3, with Q 2, which = that of press 46, type 1; and occasionally B 2, which = that of type 2^a above.—Type 4 = press 19, type 5; cf. press 14, type 12.—Type 5, large round type = press 26, type 3.—Type 6 is like press 30, type 4; press 34, type 7; press 42, type 2, etc.—Type 7, the capitals = those of press 14, type 16 (see below, type 12), but an additional I and P are also found; I 1 is as type 3, I 2 as press 14, type 16, or press 42, type 4 (cf. types 11^b, 12); P 2 is as P 2 of type 3; 20 ll. of this type = 110 mm.; of type 12, 103 mm.—Type 8, very large type.—Type 9, small type, curly-tailed h; like press 16, type 6; cf. press 34, type 2^a, etc.—Type 10 resembles press 30, type 5; but 20 ll. = 85 mm.—Type 11 = press 22, type 3; 20 ll. = 95–6 mm. Of this type four varieties occur: 11^a, as press 22; small N, I as press 16, type 3 or press 34, type 7; y almost always slopes to the right. The end of the 3 is not bent back. 11^b = 11^a with I as type 12. This variety seems = press 42, type 4. 11^c = 11^a with large N. 11^d = 11^a with large N, a different T, and y mostly sloping to the left like that of press 2.—Type 12 = press 14, type 16; 20 ll. = 103 mm. I is like that of 11^a, and of press 42, type 4.—Type 13, upright type, apparently = press 19, type 6; cf. press 14, type 11.—Type 14 = press 38, type 12?—Type 15 has capitals like press 27, type 1, but a latin, not a french, lowercase; 18 ll. = 83 mm. Cf. press 14, type 13.]

II.—LYON.

[A complete list of the printers and stationers of Lyon is given by M. Natalis Rondot in his work, Les graveurs et les imprimeurs à Lyon au 15^e siècle; his dates are taken chiefly from the city records, and refer, not as a rule to the dates of the first extant books, but to the date of settlement, so far as it is known. These dates are given in brackets below, as they are not in accordance with the system here adopted. In the case of Ortuin and Glockengiesser, who did not as a rule date their books, M. Rondot's date has been adopted for convenience.]

[Suigus was still at Torino on 24 Oct. 1496 (P. no. 610); it is therefore certain that the Lyon press was started before that at Torino was closed. The partners may possibly have printed no. 8660 at Valence on their journey northwards. The supposed migration to Venezia in 1497–98 no doubt rests on the words 'litteris Venetis' so often used in Lyon books of this period; the supposed Torino books of 1497 and 1499 are at present without sufficient evidence of existence.—Type 5*, a recast of type 5 (see Torino; 20 ll. = 89 mm.) on a smaller body; 20 ll. = 80 mm. xxxvi. Martin Havard.

[See Rondot, op. cit., p. 211. Havard was at the head of an establishment in 1493, and printed an ordinance for the consuls in 1497; but this seems to be lost.—Type 1 (14 March $\frac{1498}{1500}$), small gothic text; round h; M like that of press 10, type 1.]

xxxvij. Petrus, of Hungary, second press.

[See Rondot, op. cit., p. 153; Weale, Bibl. Liturg., p. 90. There is a difficulty about the date 16 Apr. 1500, as Easter was on the 19th of April in 1500 and the 11th of April in 1501. There was therefore no 16 Apr. 1500, according to the usual method of reckoning.]

xxxviii. Jacques Arnollet.

[There seems to be at present no evidence that the two books said to be printed at Genève by Arnollet exist, or if they exist, that they have the place of printing mentioned. M. Rondot, op. cit., p. 163, says that he conducted offices at Genève and Lyon simultaneously; this seems very improbable. He is said (ib.) to have been associated from 1490 to 1492 with Claude Daygne.—Type 1, large round type, like Paris, press 26, type 3.—Type 2, french upright, almost identical with Paris, press 27, type 4; cf. also TP. xxiv. 2; 4 ll. = 18 mm.—Type 3, french text, very like Paris, press 27, type 1; 1 differs from TP. xxiv. 8; 20 ll. = 91 mm.]

xxxix. François Fradin.

[See also above, press 32. According to M. Rondot, Fyroben was at Lyon as a printer from 1496–1519. For the Uzès sacramentary of Aug. 1500 see Péricaud no. 221; for the Trentenarius of 19 Nov. 1500 see Castan's Cat. of the Inc. at Besançon, no. 511.]

This section is connected by the cut in Les quatre choses with the Livre des bonnes moeurs, which has the same cut, and thus with Le Roy; it is connected with § 5 by the L, which is found in the Régime du ménage there.—Type 1 resembles press 18, type 1; the capitals seem identical; but the face of the type is much and the body slightly larger; 20 ll. = 115 mm. in the Complainte de l'âme damnée and two following books; in the Congé 20 ll. = 117–8 mm.; in the other two books the size is intermediate. i. Johann Solidi.

[See Köln, press 10. Solidi probably came to Vienne in 1476; he seems to have died in 1479, shortly after printing the Vienne statutes, if these indeed are by him and not by Frommolt; they were printed after 4 Nov. 1478 but before May 1479, and one copy has an inscription mentioning Solidi, and implying that he was dead at the time it was written. It seems probable that after he had printed this one book in his type 3 (which its mixture in his type 1—if indeed these books are not for the most part also printed by Frommolt—shews to have been for some time in his hands) Solidi died and was succeeded by Frommolt, who may have been one of his workmen.—Type 1 = Köln, press 10, type 1. i. Jean Bouyer, of Saintes.

[Type 1, TP. xxvii. 8; Claudin, Mon. de l'Impr. de Poitiers, pl. 12, etc. Larger text type. Cf. Paris, press 9, type 2. Type 1^b, with mixt capitals and hyphens, Claudin pl. 38–43. Type 1^a, with french instead of latin long s, f, etc., Claudin pl. 69.—Type 2, TP. xxvii. 7; Claudin pl. 15, 16, 26, etc. The straight d is more common than the round d in 1479, but in 1483 it seems to have disappeared. One of the roman capitals shewn in Claudin pl. 56, a B, is found in the Breviarium historiale of 1479. These are not the same as the capitals of type 2^b. Cf. Paris, press 8, type 1 (q.v.), etc.; 20 ll. = 77 mm. Type 2^b, with semi-roman (Angers) capitals, Claudin pl. 68. Type 2^a, with french capitals mixt with it; Claudin pl. 71, 73.—Type 3, smaller than 2; at first, in the Aesopus, it has straight d only, but in the Poitiers Breviary (Claudin pl. 29) the round d has replaced it. The capitals and body are those of type 2, but the face is much smaller. Cf. Paris, press 8, type 2; that has round d always and a different v; the v here is too large for the rest of the lowercase.—Type 3 bis, an intermediate type, with round d and french long s and f. Most of the caps. are those of type 2, but C, D, O differ; Claudin pl. 69 (one word only).—Type 4, Claudin pl. 47; TP. xxvii. 9; cf. Vienne, press 3, type 1 (TP. xxvii. 5). Type 4^a, with french long s, f, see Claudin pl. 48.—Type 5, Claudin pl. 46, smaller than 4.—Type 6, larger text; Claudin pl. 76–81 (headings); cf. Paris, press 26, type 9.—Type 7, small type, with curly-tailed h; like Paris, press 16, type 6, or press 26, type 2^b, etc.; Claudin pl. 74–81, text.—Type 8, french text, very like Paris, press 14, type 12, or press 19, type 5; Claudin pl. 95, 96.—Type 9 resembles type 2; cf. Paris, press 13, types 1, 4; Claudin pl. 88, text.—Type 10, rather large upright type; Claudin pl. 97, 133.—Type 11, rather small text; round h; like Paris, press 34, type 8; cf. press 23, type 7; press 32, type 1, etc.; Claudin pl. 108, 111, etc.]

PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS.

The names of towns are printed in small capitals; those of publishers and stationers are in italics, and are preceded by the sign †. A reference from a printer to a press, instead of to the numbers of the text, shows that the printer in question is not represented in the two libraries. The names of such publishers only are given as occur in the Index, and the date attached is in each case that of the earliest book in the Index in which their name appears.]

TABLE II.

AUTHORS (HAIN).

This table contains, in alphabetical order of authors, the books in the Index which are contained in Hain's Repertorium, with the exception of books printed in the Netherlands (for which references are made to Campbell's numbers, as given in Table III.) and England. The titles follow Hain's wording, with but few exceptions, and are not made to agree with the text of the Index. The number preceding the title in each case is that of Hain; that following the date is that of the Index.]
